Visitation of England and Wales.

EDITED BY

JOSEPH JACKSON HOWARD, LL.D.,

(Maltravers Herald Extraordinary,)

AND

FREDERICK ARTHUR CRISP.

1135457

AT the suggestion of several friends interested in genealogical research, and with the assistance of Mr. F. A. CRISP, I have been induced to print a portion of my collections illustrating the last three generations of families resident in England and Wales.

The information now collected would in a few years' time be almost unattainable.

In every case the representatives of the various families have most kindly favoured me with genealogical data, and permission to give facsimiles of autographs, seals, &c.

It will be observed that many of the pedigrees have an illustration of the arms with a note that such arms are recorded in the College of Arms, in Ulster's Office, or in the Lyon Office. In cases where the arms are not recorded no such illustration is given; and I have thought it proper to take this course in order that families bearing arms with due authority may be distinguished from those who use traditional but unauthorized arms.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that the use of arms, even for a very long period, does not, in England, create any prescriptive right, and cannot confer any authority on the arms used, unless they have been borne with the sanction of the Crown, which can only be obtained through the Officers of the College of Arms. In other words, in order to bear arms with authority, the wearer must be in a position to shew:

- (1) That he has obtained a grant of arms from the College of Arms; or
- (2) That his direct male ancestor formerly obtained such a grant, or was entitled to bear arms by virtue of the limitations of a grant; or
- (3) That his direct male ancestor had arms allowed to him at one of the Heralds' Visitations, although the grant then made is not in existence at the present day.

Manuscript - 20100 (25 1013)

I have decided to limit the length of the pedigrees in these volumes to three generations, including the present representative, and I have been influenced considerably in this decision because, in entering a pedigree in the College of Arms, proof is only required previous to the grandparents of the person entering the pedigree.

The Visitations of the Heralds, which were commenced in the reign of Henry VIII., and terminated in that of James II., were the means of preserving much information of value in relation to the descents of the nobility and gentry, and it is to be regretted that they are now a thing of the past, and will probably never be revived.

The present series of volumes form an attempt to record such information as the pedigrees entered at the Visitations preserved, but with greater detail, and on that account they are entitled "Visitations."

J. J. H.

The First Volume has been issued to Subscribers at one guinea. The price of remaining copies is two guineas.

The Second Volume will be ready in about ten days, and will be sold to Subscribers for one guinea.

On and after the date of issue the price will be raised to one guinea and-a-half.

Visitations of Scotland and Ireland, and a third volume of the "Visitation of England and Wales," are in progress.

To F. A. CRISP,
GROVE PARK, DENMARK HILL, LONDON, S.E.

Sir,

Please send me "Visitation of England and Wales," Vol. II., at the Subscription price, one guinea.
